IS SALT LAKE CITY IN YOUR FUTURE PLANS? From the Jan-Feb National Genealogical Society Newsletter we find this news: "The 1910 Federal population census schedules and related indexes will be available to Library patrons early in 1983 after the microfilms have been processed and catalogued. The census consists of 1,784 microfilm rolls, and the indexes to twenty-one states are contained on 4,642 rolls (Soundex-Miracode system).

Construction of the Genealogical Library's new 136,000-square-foot building on the block west of Temple Square in Salt Lake City will begin in January 1983. It will replace the present facility located in the 28 story LDS Church office building. The new library will have five floors initially and sufficient structural capacity to accommodate three more when needed.

A 6,000-square-foot underground storage facility adjacent to the new building will accommodate high density storage. The new library will have classrooms on each floor and space to seat approximately 960 patrons. Library patrons will have access to computer terminals, books, microfilm, microfiche, and other research sources.

Estimated completion of the new facility is early 1985.
